/PURPOSE OF POLICY

Momentum Worldwide Pty Limited (Momentum) is required and committed to comply with the Australian Privacy Principles (APPs) in the Privacy Act 1998 (Cth) (Privacy Act). The APPs regulate the manner in which Momentum, and its affiliates, protects the privacy of personal information throughout its lifecycle, from collection/receipt to use and disclosure, storage, accessibility and disposal.

The purpose of this policy is to set out the open and transparent approach that Momentum takes in relation to the treatment and management of Personal Information; as well as to outline the measures Momentum has implemented to safeguard the privacy of those individuals who voluntarily submit their personal information, whilst complying with its obligations under the relevant privacy laws.

It includes information on how Momentum collects and receives, uses, discloses and keeps secure, individuals' personal information; it also covers how Momentum makes the personal information it holds available for access to and correction by the individual.

Momentum is generally exempt from the Privacy Act when it collects and handles employee records; however, Momentum's policy is to protect the personal information of its employees as it does other personal information.

/DEFINITIONS

Personal Information: Personal information means information or an opinion (including information or an opinion forming part of a database and whether or not recorded in a material form) about an individual whose identity is apparent or can reasonably be ascertained from the information or opinion. Personal information includes but is not limited to:

- a written record which may include your name, address and other details about you;
- photographs, images, video or audio footage; and
- fingerprints, retina prints, blood or DNA samples.

Unsolicited Information: Unsolicited personal information is personal information where no active steps have been taken to collect the information provided (for example, when an employment application is sent to Momentum by an individual on their own initiative, rather than in response to a job advertisement).

Disclosure: Disclosure is the action of making new or secret information known.

Direct Marketing: Direct Marketing is a form of advertising in which marketing materials are provided to consumers in order to communicate information about a product or service. Types of direct marketing materials include, but are not limited to:

- short message service (SMS) texts;
- email;
- telephone;
- database marketing;
- flyers;
- catalogue distribution; and

- promotional letters

Opt-out: The term opt-out refers to several methods by which individuals can avoid receiving unsolicited product or service information. This ability is usually associated with direct marketing campaigns (such as telemarketing, e-mail marketing or direct mail).

Cookies: A cookie, also known as an HTTP cookie, web cookie or browser cookie, is a small piece of data sent from a website and stored in a user's web browser while the user is browsing that website. Every time the user loads the website, the browser sends the cookie back to the server to notify the website of the user's previous activity.

/COLLECTION

The main purposes for which Momentum collects, holds, uses and discloses personal information are primarily to supply employees of member organisations and individuals who obtain Momentum products and services directly from Momentum, with information and details of its products and services; as well as for campaign management and promotional prize fulfillment. Momentum may also collect and use personal information for secondary purposes including, but not limited to, the following:

1. provision of products and services;
2. accounting purposes; and
3. business planning and product development.

Momentum will only collect an individual's personal information where the information is necessary for Momentum to perform one or more of its functions or activities. In this context, "collect" means gather, acquire or obtain by any means, information in circumstances where the individual is identifiable or identified. Momentum may also collect personal information online for all legal purposes, which includes, but is not limited to the "Contact Us" feature on its website.

Momentum will not make it mandatory for visitors of its website to provide personal information unless such information is required to answer an inquiry or provide a service.

/PERSONAL INFORMATION WE MAY COLLECT

Personal Information Momentum may collect includes, but is not limited to, an individual's:

- full name;
- full name of legal guardian;
- details of your family or household structure (such as the number of children you have);
- details of any organization on behalf of which you submit information;
- username and password;
- gender;
- date of birth;
- postal address;
- country of residence;
- contact details (including home and mobile phone numbers);
- email address;
- profile picture; and/or
- video.

Sensitive information is a subset of personal information that Momentum affords a higher level of privacy protection. Sensitive information includes, but is not limited to, the following:

- health and genetic information;
- racial or ethnic origin;
- political opinions or affiliations;
- religious beliefs or affiliations;
- philosophical beliefs;
- sexual preferences or practices;
- criminal record; and
- some types of biometric information.

Momentum's policy is to only collect sensitive information where it is reasonably necessary for our functions or activities and either:

- the individual has consented; or
- we are required or authorized by or under law (including applicable privacy legislation) to do so.

If required, Momentum may also ask to be provided with additional personal information from time to time.

Momentum is committed to use such information for the purpose for which it is has been (voluntarily) provided. If you do not wish for your personal information to be collected, Momentum requests that you do not submit it.

/HOW WE MAY COLLECT, HOLD AND USE PERSONAL INFORMATION

The type of personal information Momentum may collect and hold about an individual depends on the type of dealings that individual has with Momentum. For example, if an individual:

- enters a promotion, we will collect the individuals information through a third-party website where the information is processed and then stored on a Comma-separated values (CSV) file, or Excel spreadsheet, which is then stored on Momentum's server;
- contacts us with an enquiry, we will record details about the individual and the nature of the enquiry being made;
- is a supplier of Momentum, we will collect contact address details, including, but not limited to, all forms of contact and address, billing information and information about the goods and/or services they supply; and
- applies for a role at Momentum, we will collect the information the individual includes in their application for employment, including their cover letter, resume, contact details and referee reports, which are then stored on Momentums online recruitment and email database.

Momentum is committed to collecting personal information only by lawful and fair means. We collect personal information in a number of ways, including, but not limited to, the following:

- over the phone;
- through written correspondence (such as faxes, letters and email);
- in person (for example, at job interviews, supplier meetings and client meetings);
- through our website (for example, if an individual submits an inquiry, completes a survey or applies for a role);
- competition entry forms;
- electronic systems such as smartphone and tablet applications; and
- through third parties (such as a direct marketing database).

Momentum Worldwide

Momentum's policy is to not use personal information without taking reasonable steps to ensure that the information provided is accurate, complete and up to date; nor will it use sensitive information for the purposes of direct marketing.

Momentum will not attempt to match de-identified or anonymous data collected through surveys or online search devices (such as "cookies") with information identifying an individual, without the consent of the relevant individual.

/COLLECTION NOTICES

Momentum will take reasonable steps to notify individuals (including, but not limited to, customers, promotional entrants and job applicants) of certain matters at or before the time of collection, or as practicable afterwards. These matters include, but are not limited to, the following:

- the purposes for which we are collecting the information;
- our identity and how to contact us;
- whether the collection is required or authorized by or under an Australian law, court or tribunal order;
- the third-party organisations (or types of third parties) to whom we would disclose personal information;
- whether those third-party organisations are located overseas and, if practicable, to specify the countries in which they are located;
- to provide information on how to access and correct personal information;
- to provide information on how to make privacy complaints, and how Momentum will deal with those complaints; and
- the consequences (if any) for the individual if all or part of the individual's personal information is not provided to Momentum.

Pre-collection and Post collection notifications may provide more specific information than Momentum's Privacy Policy in relation to particular collections of personal information. The terms of Momentum's Privacy Policy are subject to the conditions outlined in pre-collection and post collection notifications, as well as the terms and conditions of particular offers, products and services. Momentum encourages you to read those provisions carefully.

Where Momentum collects personal information from a third-party (for example, a purchased list, competition entry forms, surveys and direct marketing database providers), Momentum will take reasonable steps to make sure that individuals are made aware of the collection of the details listed above and the circumstances of the collection.

Momentum may also keep records of unsolicited personal information if the Privacy Act permits it, so long as the information is reasonably necessary for one or more of our functions or activities; if not, Momentum will destroy or de-identify the information as promptly as practicable, provided it is lawful to do so.

Where individuals have consented to receiving direct marketing communications from Momentum or its affiliates, the individuals' consent will remain current until the individual advises otherwise; however, the individual may opt-out at any given time pursuant to the terms and conditions of the provider of the direct marketing communication.

If Momentum has collected the personal information used to send you direct marketing material from a third-party (for example a direct mail database provider), you can request to be notified of our source of information, and Momentum's policy is to do so unless this is unreasonable or impracticable.
